WELCOME

As we look forward to the fourth year of the EY Hockey League, we at EY are truly delighted to support the evolution of the game through the introduction of a second tier to the league.

We hope that this investment in hockey at grassroots level will give players and clubs all over the country an opportunity to excel at their passion and to compete within their highest-performing teams. This investment will help to nurture and grow the pool of young talent that has become so evident in Irish hockey over the last number of years, and that has been so visible on an international stage this year.

At EY, we are similarly committed to nurturing talent at a grassroots level in our firm, giving men and women all over the island the opportunity to grow in their careers as part of our highest-performing, diverse teams.

Hockey in Ireland is a very unique sport for its commitment to equality. Men and women have always been given the opportunity to compete within leagues and teams of the same calibre, from childhood right through to elite level.

This dedication to equality is a value we share at EY, as we continue on our journey to drive gender parity for our own people, and work with our clients to do the same.

On behalf of EY, I would like to thank all the players, coaches, officials and volunteers who contributed to brightening up our summer with such an incredible performance for hockey, and the island of Ireland. It's such an exciting time for the sport, and we feel very privileged to be such a close ally to Irish hockey at such a significant time for the game.

The very best of luck to all teams taking part in both tiers of the EY Hockey League this year. I have no doubt we will see the excitement and enthusiasm from the international success carry over into support for the domestic league.
